Council Chamber. Saturday evening

BROTHER CRANSTON :-Our usual general meeting was held this evening; there were only 15 brothers Brother Curtis was in the chair, Brother Browerton read the famous platform which was put forth by brother Night ingule and a few others in Providenc, the first of the week, and then moved that a vote be taken for the purpose of obtaining the opinions of those present in regard to the Platform. Brother Cartis said that he wouldnt put the vote because he knowd they was all agin him."

Brother George Bowen, Jr., requested brother Curtis to leave the chair, which the latter did, and brother Bowen took his place and put the question,-all present voted against the platform, except brother Curtis, who went for it.

Brother Brewerton announced his intention of railying the hounds at the meeting next Saturday night, for the purpose of throwing this platferm overhourd, and remaining by the old organization.

LAND WARRANTS .- The market is by no means glutted. Not more than four thousand warrants have yet been issued, and those have been scattered over the whole Union, so that no one point has been overstocked. Washington seems thus far to have been the best market, the price ranging from $1.09 to $1.10 per acre, according to the size of the warrant; whilst at New York and Philadelphia $1.07 has been the prevailing price. We understand the tendency is now downward, as there will be a large issue of eight's on the 1st July,-Nat. Int.

Curious Typographical Error.-Prof. Trench, in his latest work on the English language, points out a curious typographical error in the 21th verse of the 23d chapter of Matthew. The words which strain at a gust and swallow a camel," the professor thinks coattin a misprint, which having been passed over in the edition of 1611, has held its ground ever since. The translators intended to ray, "which strain out a gnat and swallow a camel," that being the correct rendering of the original, as appears in Typisdale's and Cranmer's translations. both of which have "strained out."

It was the custom of the stricter Jews to strain their wine, vinegar, and other portables through linear or gause, lest unawares they should drink down some little nucleon insect, as a gnat, and thus. transgress the Levitical law. It was to this custom the Saviour alluded, intending to say that the Scribes and Phariscosa while they strain out a guat from their drink, would yet swallow a camel at a

Calvin on Wise, -The late Albert Gallatin, President of the New York Historical Society, related the following anecdate to the Hon G. C. Verplanck, from whom we get it. Several years ago, a number of Calvin's letters were found among the archives of Geneva, some of which, relating to his domentic affairs, exhibit a curious picture of the daily life of this great presbyter, and illustrate strikingly his pesuliar habits and temper. In a scelding letter to the syndics, or magistrate, he complains that they have filled his cellar with wine of poor quality.

"[ do not keep open house," he says "nor do I entertain my guests at my table, and therefore the quantity you have sent displeases me as well as the quality. I wish, therefore you would take it nway, and replace it with something that I can drink. I do not want much-mere ly enough for my own use and that of my family; a few barriques (barrels of about 40 gallons each, say four or five, will be sufficient for me once a quarter,"

We are afmid the Presbyterians of this century have been tremendous backsliders. When shall we see such men as Luther and Calvin ?- Exchange.

NATIVE AFRICANS. -A number of native Congous-real Guinea negroes-arrived in Salem, Muss., a few days ago. The Gazette says :--

They had managed to acquire a considerable knowledge of English, and a reply of one of them to a questioner displayed a shrewdness worth mentioning. A specia, tor happened among other queries, to usk how they liked America; Congo immediateland-cold inclining can in like Merican leak like a basket." The crowd shouted, and Congo, showing his ivory, tumbled into the ship's boat to be conveyed to the veseol's side.

Use Correnas.-The papers are every where urging the free use of copperas as a disinfecting agent. It is a chenp article, costing only three cents per pound, and can be found at the druggists and many of the larger grocery stores. A couple of pounds may be dissolved in ten quarts of water, and the solution paured into sinks, gutters, cespools, and all other fifthy places with good effect. We advise housekeepers to purchase five, ten or fifteen pounds, and make a free use of it as above recommended .-Cholera or no cholera, their dwellings and out-buildings will contain a purer atmosphere after the use of copperas.-Exchange

A Bunglan Detretor. Quite a singular machi e has been exhibited lately in our city for the detection of burglars, by a "Yankee," whose business seems to be to sell rights for counties. The contrivance consists of a bell attached to a spring, and a fluid lamp with a match attached also to a spring; from this machine ( which can be placed at the head of one's bed or any other desirable place) run wires to be attached to every door and window in the house. In case either is moved the nlarm bell is set in motion and a light struck, leaving nothing to be done but the seizing one's revolver and boots. The cost of the article is put at $15, and it is premounced by a machinist friend as working admirably. -Albany Allas.

How to Cook Potatoss .- Potatoes at lhis season are very poor eating, unless rightly cooked, and not one in a hundred knows how to do that. Treated as in the fall and winter, they come upon the table watery, solid, and every way disagreeable. A Vermont woman, who has surprised us by making old potatoes as good as new, dry menly, and fresh, has disclosed to us the process she puts them through to effect so desirable a result. The potatoes are pared and put to soak in cold water from four to aix hours; then dropped into water which is already boiling-an essential point; and a little salt saided to the water improves them. Take them from the fire the moment they are done; pour off all the water and let them stand uncovered in the kettle over the fire till the water evaporates from the surface, and they are ready for the table. The result will astonish those who try it for the first time, and they will never return to the old method of boiling them with the skins on .- Spring field Republi-

PRESERVATION OF PRINTS.-A half dozon quart bottles were found in the foun. dation of a building in Burlington crecked many years ago, which seemed as fresh as if they had been put up last year,-From inquiries it was found that the fum ily were in the limbit of burying bottles of green currents in the cellar, and that these must be at least 30 years old. The finding of these bottles proves that green fruit is succeptible of preservation for mamy years, when carefully put up so as to exclude the air.

An Our Birn.—As some missons were effecting some repairs in a house in Rue Merciere, in Lyons, France, they surprised in its nest, where it was apparently expiring from old age, a swallow, having round its necka chain bearing a little silver plate, with the following words engraved upon it ;_"Ludovicus Margaritæ fidele, 1749.
